Identity Management

"We see hundreds of thousands of ID's every year, and it was impossible to address any question related to them. My security always had to try to remember certain things, and could not. Promoters were always saying customers to their events were not recorded, and finally my insurance company demanded that I be able to reproduce ID's for any incident that might involve them.

EProcess helped us grab every ID, spot every fake, track capacity, record who was attending particular events, show composition of women & men, communicate with our customers and complete other tasks and forms we require. Counting, security and marketing are now a lot easier."
